BOY MAY DIE FROM WOUND

CRETE YOUTH SHOT ACCIDENTALLY WHILE HUNTING.

Rushed to a Lincoln Hospital Where His Condition Is Said to Be Very Serious.

CRETE, Neb., Oct. 4.—Harold Belden, fifteen years old, was shot while hunting near here today. His injuries are serious and he may die. He was rushed to a Lincoln hospital for treatment.

The victim of the accident with Robert and George Lutz and Johnny Parilek left home at 11 a. m to hunt. About 11:30 they talked to Mrs Joe Muff on the Muff farm four miles north of Crete. They left and in a few minutes one of the boys ran back and said Harold had been shot. Mrs. Muff left with her car, carried the boy to her home and called Dr. Hartman, who eight minutes later started to Lincoln with the boy. A great hole had been blown in his left side by the charge from the gun

Mrs Muff's car was covered with blood from the boy's wound

Word from Lincoln after the boy's arrival was that he was still alive. He is the son of Mr and Mrs. H. J Belden.

CAN THESE BOYS ESCAPE GALLOWS?

TONY DAMICO NICHOLAS GUIDO AND ATTY DE STEFANO

Unusual interest attaches to the trial in Chicago of Tony Damico and Nicholas Guido, charged with the murder of James Burke, a rooming house proprietor. The boys, who are under age, were defended by Attorney Rocco de Stafano, who based his plea for mercy on the Loeb-Leopold case. Unlike those slayers, however, these boys were poverty stricken. James Burke was a former resident of Lincoln and Beatrice and was a brother to Mrs. Harry Hayter.

LAFOLLETTE THINKS HE HAS [illegible] TO WIN

Independent Managers Decide Candidate to Make Final Swing Thru the New England States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—After forty-four years in public life, "Battling Bob" LaFollette was read ytoday for the real adventure of his political career—a chance, he thinks, for the presidency of the United States.

He spent the day completing last minute preparations for his transcontinental speaking trip on which he sets out Sunday night. The first speech is to be made at Rochester, N. Y., Monday. LaFollette managers are still debating on the route of the independent candidate's swing to the Pacific coast.

Whatever may be the decision, it has been definitely decided by the LaFollette managers that the independent candidate should make his final swing of the campaign thru the New England states and close it at Cleveland on the Saturday before election.

LEGISLATORS DO DECIDING

Attorney Says State Board of Assessment Has No Power to Interpret.

Attorneys representing the various branch line towns and cities that are seeking thru the courts to secure a larger share of the valuation placed on railroad rolling stock and hence the taxes accruing therefrom filed with the supreme court Saturday a brief setting forth their reasons.

They say that the law is quite plain as to the intent of the legislators, and that when that condition exists the state board of assessment has no power to interpret the law as it thinks best. The valuation of the branch lines themselves is not in controversy, but merely whether the taxes should be apportioned according to the main track mileage alone or according to the number of miles of main track of each branch line and each main line.

A highly technical discussion of the matter marks the brief. One contention insisted upon is that it is a legal presumption that the legislature, when it legislates upon any subject, has in mind all previous and existing legislation thereon

The case will be submitted next week.

DAWES BACK THRU STATE

TEN-MINUTE PLATFORM TALKS AT FOUR CITIES.

Night Meeting at Omaha on Night of Tenth Last Appearance in Nebraska Before Campaign Ends.

Charles G. Dawes, republican nominee for vice president, will speak next week at Norfolk, Grand Island, Columbus, Fremont and Omaha, according to word from national headquarters released Saturday by the state committee.

When the Dawes special skims thru from Sioux City en route to Wyoming next Wednesday, October 8, a stop will be made at Norfolk for a ten-minute rear platform address.

When the special comes from the west two days later, October 10, ten-minute speeches from the rear end of the train will be made as follows:

Grand Island, 10:30 a. m.
Columbus, 12:20 p. m.
Fremont, 1:15 p. m.

General Dawes will arrive in Omaha at 2:30 p. m. and will speak in the evening at the auditorium.

Continued effort on the part of State Chairman Sackett to keep the vice presidential nominee longer in Nebraska, failed to bring the desired result and disappointment is expressed at headquarters. Requests for Dawes had come from all parts of the state.

"The national committee released this itinerary and declines to change it," said Mr. Sackett. "In view of the demand for Dawes from all sections of the country, I presume they have done all they can do for us. It is quite natural, however, that we should feel disappointed."

CONFER ON NEW HIGHWAY

Lincoln-Yankton Airline Will Be Marked L-Y Thru Lancaster County, Is Decision.

C. J. Noreen and C. A. Robinson of Malmo, and Frederick Olson of Swedeburg, representing Saunders county in the development of the Lincoln-Yankton highway, conferred with State Highway Engineer Cochran and the officers of the chamber of commerce about the marking of the highway thru Lancaster county. State Engineer Cochran has approved of the "L Y" marking. This route has not as yet been designated a state or federal highway from Wisner to Lincoln, and therefore, ti cannot be given a state highway number.

The route from Lincoln to Yankton is almost an air-line and the North Fourteenth street road from Lincoln to the Lancaster line, sixteen miles, is in excellent condition.

Saunders county road boosers see to it that the highway thru their county is made comparable to the southern end of the road.

Dodge and Cuming counties have already done a great deal of work on improving the road and it is marked. All is marked now excepting the Lancaster, county division.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—Ezra Meeker, ninety-four year old Oregon trail blazer, and Lieut. Oakley G. Kelly alighted at Schoen field, Fort Benjamin Harrison, near here, at 9:30 today on their airplane trip to Dayton, Ohio, for the international air races. They are flying from Vancouver, Wash. American institutions and American standards are at stake in this campaign, Lochray declared. He said American labor prefers the standards they have today as against the "roseate pictures of a millenium which LaFollette promises"

TRAIN GUNS ON SENATOR

BROOKHART READS HIMSELF OUT OF THE PARTY.

Iowa Republicans Take Position by That Repudiation of Candidates, He Bolted G. O. P.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 4.—Republican and democratic guns alike were trained today upon a square jawed, stockily built and smiling personage — Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa.

Having bitterly assailed President Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, thereby unveiling his attitude toward the leaders of the republican ticket, the junior senator from Iowa has been adjudged an "outsider" by his own party and a "would-be supreme dictator of politics" by his democratic opponent Dan Steck of Ottumwa.

The republican state central committee concluding a two day star chamber session yesterday took the position that by his repudiation of Coolidge and Dawes, Senator Brookhart had of his own accord bolted the party and was an outsider by his own declarations. A statement issued by the committee said in part:

"We, as the representatives of the republican party in Iowa submit to the republican voters of the state that the repudiation of the republican nominees by Senator Brookhart is a repudiation of and a bolt from the republican party."

It went on to say that Brookhart's action "has been inspired by the heads of the LaFollette party for the malicious purpose of attempting to turn the attention of the voters from the real issues of this campaign."

While Brookhart will retain the party label the statement implied he forfeited any right to support by party leaders.

When advised thru the United Press of the committee's action by long distance telephone to Spencer, Iowa, the senator with characteristic Brookhart castigation said "the committee is small game and represent but one vote each. I may or may not answer them."

Brookhart apparently was unworried for he laughed the matter off with snapping jaws.

Almost simultaneous with the action of the state central committee, Dan Steck, democratic nominee for U. S. senator, opened his campaign at Mediapolis, Iowa with a scorching attack on Brookhart, saying the junior senator "is the supreme egotist of this day and age," and that "he has declared himself the supreme political dictator in Iowa".

LABOR EDITOR HAS LEFT LAFOLLETTE

J. Lochray of Mid-West News Announces He Will Throw His Influence to Reelect Coolidge.

OMAHA, Oct. 4.—J. Lochray, editor of the Mid-West News, a labor paper, threw a bombshell in Nebraska politics when he announced editorially in his paper today that he had decided Senator LaFollette and would throw the influence of his publication to the reelection of President Coolidge. This is considered one of the most important strikes made so far in the three cornered fight between Coolidge, LaFollette and Davis in the state.

Lochray, who has just returned from a two weeks tour of eastern states, declared that he found "nothing but pessimism" among LaFollette supporters in the ranks of labor.

"This attitude," he said, "has sprung from the inborn common sense and conservatism of these wage earners."

SENATORS BATTLE NEW YORK GIANTS

Thousands Witness First Game of World Series at Washington.

FINE WEATHER FOR EVENT

Senators Given Ovation When They Appear.

HAND FOR WALTER JOHNSON

Giants Seem Self-Conscious When They Go on the Field and Get a Little Applause.

GRIFFITH STADIUM, WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Pennant winners for the first time in history, the Washington Senators jumped into the fight to give a frenzied city something else that it never had before—a world's champion baseball team.

With two teams so evenly matched that sharps could not decide on a betting favorite and with weather conditions ideal, the opener had a perfect baseball setting.

With the weather agreeable it was certain that every seat in the stands would be filled because more than double the number of tickets available had been ordered weeks ago. The bleachers in a little section that seemed almost in center field was filled to the top two hours before game time and the more expensive seats in the left field pavilion filled almost as rapidly.

The famous baseball clowns, Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the two old Washington favorites entertained the crowd.

Looking neat and classy in new white uniforms, the Senators were first on the field. They were given an ovation when they emerged from the dugout and started tossing around a dozen balls.

As soon as the park opened scandal talk gave way to the first real baseball conversation that had been heard in three days.

Walter Johnson was given a big hand when he stepped to the plate for batting practice, and he obliged by driving one into the stands.

The line up:

New York—	Washington—
Lindstrom, 3b	McNeely, cf
Frisch, 2b	Harris, 2b
Younf, rf	Rice, rf
Kelly, cf	Goslin, lf
Terry, 1b	Judge, 1b
Wilson, lf	Bluege, 3b
Jackson, ss	Peckinpaugh, ss
Gowdy, c	Ruel, c
Nehf, p	Johnson, p

Umpires: Behind plate, Connolly (A), on first, Klem (NL); second base, Dineen (AL), third base, Quigley (NL).

The Giants got a little applause when they came upon the field. They acted self-conscious. Gowdy, Snyder and Pep Young waved to friends in the stands. It seemed to be a very much subdued team.

When the Giants took the field for batting practice, the band played "The Side Walks of New York," the New York anthem and there were cheers. McQuillan, Bentley and Nehf hit with the Giant regulars when they went out for batting practice.

Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, George Sisler, manager of the St. Louis Browns and the one and only Babe Ruth appeared on the field and had their pictures taken with McGraw. They are heavy literature experts for the series.

Ten minutes before game time, Walter Johnson came out to warm up for the Senators and Nehf went out alone for the Giants. The Giants lined up in military formation and the marines and doughboys grouped in front of the flag draped box to receive the presidential party.

The game started at 2:11 p. m.

First Inning.

New York: Lindstrom up: ball one wide; ball two inside; strike one called; Lindstrom flied to McNeely for an easy out. Frisch up: ball one outside; strike swung; Frisch bunted out to Bluege. It was a little pop fly. Young up: strike one swung; ball one outside; ball two high; strike two swung, ball three high; out, on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Young protested emphatically about Connallay's decision but got nowhere with the complaint.

Washington McNeeley up. McNeeley flied to Wilson. Harris up, strike one called, ball one low, ball two, low. Harris out Jackson to Terry. Jackson juggled the ball but got it over for a fast play. Terry and Harris collided at first and Terry hurt his left knee but remained in the game. Rice up. Rice fouled to Lindstrom. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning.

FIRE DAMAGE AT COCA COLA WORKS

Blaze of Unknown Origin Causes Considerable Loss at N Street Bottling Plant Early Saturday Morning.

Fire of unknown origin caused several hundred dollars damage to the mixing room and contents at the Coca Cola bottling works, 2020 N. about 7 a. m. Saturday. Insurance was carried on both the building and stock.

The blaze was noticed shortly before 7 a. m by a woman who lived near the plant. She called C. D. Leonard company manager, and informed him that smoke was coming from the building Mr. Leonard thought it was merely the men at the plant starting a fire in the water heater, he said, but when he tried to call over the phone and could get no answer, he called the fire department to be informed that an alarm had been already turned in

The fire started near a gas plate at the head of the stairs in the mixing room The gas was in no way responsible for the blaze, however, Fire Chief Hansen said he was inclined to believe tha tan oily rag was probably to blame for the conflagration. The flames had made good headway when the fire fighters arrived

The Coca Cola bottling company safe was blown by yeggs last summer who so far have not been apprehended Several times the place has been looted of sacks of sugar

THEFTS ENORMOUS

Above is the first photograph obtained of George R. Christian, the missing broker whose defalcations of at least a million and a half dollars forced into bankruptcy the firm of Day & Heaton. He has been missing since August 14, altho his thefts did not become known until a few days ago. Harry V. Day says this photo, the first the police have been able to obtain, is apt to be misleading in that it makes Christian's hair appear dark, whereas it is a decided blonde. The picture also shows Christian's hair quite full, whereas he is actually quite bald above the forehead.

ASKS NORRIS A QUESTION

WILL HE VOTE AS SENATOR FOR DAWES OR FOR BRYAN?

Lincoln Man Would Also Like to Be Informed as to His Choice as Between Dawes and Wheeler.

Dr. Ira E. Atkinson, republican and long time resident of the city, president of the United Insurance company, addressed an open letter to Senator George W. Norris Saturday, asking him to kindly state now how he would cast his vote as a senator if that body is called upon to elect a vice president thru the failure of the electoral college to choose. He would like to know whether he would vote for Dawes or Bryan or Wheeler. The letter follows:

"It appears from a reading of the provisions of the constitution that, in the event of a failure of anyone to receive a majority vote of the whole number of the presidential electors, chosen or appointed to elect a president and vice president, the duty devolves upon the lower house of congress to elect a president and upon the senate to elect a vice president, the latter to be chosen 'from the two highest on the list.'

"It further appears that, should the house fail to elect a president before the fourth day of March following, the vice president shall act as president.

"As a republican and citizen of Nebraska, I desire to know from you, whether, if the contingency arises requiring you, as a United States senator, to choose or assist in choosing a vice president 'from the two highest on the list,' and Charles W. Bryan and Charles G. Dawes should be the 'two highest on the list,' would you vote for Charles W. Bryan or Charles G. Dawes? Or, if Burton K Wheeler and Charles G. Dawes should be 'the two highest on the list,' would you vote for Burton K. Wheeler or for Charles G. Dawes?

"I am addressing this inquiry to you by open letter and I trust that, in like manner, you will give your answer to the same, as I am quite sure that you, as a candidate for re-election to the United States senate, will be glad to have your attitude known on the subject mentioned and, likewise, the people of the state will be glad to know your attitude in the premises."

JUDGMENT GIVEN WIFE

MRS. STOCKER MUST PAY FOR ALIENATING SON'S LOVE.

Supreme Court Refuses a Rehearing in Case Where Ten Thousand Dollar Verdict Was Entered Up.

The supreme court entered a judgment Saturday refusing to grant a rehearing to Mrs. Harriet Stocker, against whom a Lancaster county jury rendered a verdict for $10,000 in favor of the wife of her son, T. P. R Stocker, Lincoln attorney. This is substantially equivalent to an order, that she must pay the amount fixed.

Mr. Stocker sued his wife for a divorce, but lost in both the district and supreme courts. She refused to ask for a divorce and lives apart from him. They have a child who is with the mother. She was given alimony. She resides with her parents, well-to-do people living in Auburn Stocker has protested in vain so far against a situation that he says is not conductive to good morals, wedded but not wedded.

The younger Mrs Stocker blamed her mother-in-law, and sued for alienation of her husband's affections. The plaintiff said that her mother-in-law was of a persistent and dominating nature and disposition, and "wrongfully, wickedly and with malicious intent" set about to alienate her son's affections; that she insisted that they live with her and threatened to disinherit her son if he disobeyed. All sorts of indignties were heaped upon her the younger woman claimed. The elder Mr. Stocked died shortly before the institution of this suit.

The mother denied all of these charges. She said that it was the conduct of the wife herself that destroyed her husband's affections, and in the motion for rehearing her attorney laid emphasis upon the contention that the wife's own testimony sustained this declaration. The mother said that any advice she gave her son relating to his domestic affairs was without any intention, desire or purpose of separating the young couple, but was given with an honest motive, in good faith and the sincere belief that it was for the moral and social welfare of her son. He testified taht even after th edivorce he had not lost his love for his wife, but it was her subsequent conduct that killed it.

COOLIDGES AT THE GAME

President and Wife Appear Before Game and Chief Throws in New Ball.

GRIFFITH STADIUM, WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—President and Mrs. Coolidge arrived at their box in the grand stand five minutes before 2 o'clock. The president took off his light grey felt hat while the players of both teams lined up and the band played "Hail to the Chief." Mrs. Coolidge was attired in a white dress with short sleeves and large white hat. Stanley Harris, manager of the Washington team brought out a new ball for the president to throw in. Before this ceremony however, the band played and the 40,000 spectators stood with bared heads at attention.

Harris shook hands with Mr. Coolidge who examined the ball and posed for photographers with his right arm raised. The umpires grouped themselves around calling for him to throw it to them and he made a short pitch, the veteran Cannally jumping into the air and catching the ball with one hand.

Babe Ruth and other celebrities "crashed" the players box while the band and soliders marched off the field and the umpires called the captains together and the first game of the 1924 world series got under way.

CHAMBER IN OPPOSITION

BUSINESS MEN DON'T WANT CITY TO SELL GASOLINE.

Directors of Chamber of Commerce Call Project False Economy and Encroachment of Business Field.

Chamber of commerce directors devoted a special session to consideration of the proposed amendment authorizing the city to sell gasoline and oil at wholesale and retail, and adopted this resolution:

"Whereas, The Lincoln City Commissioners have unanimously passed a resolution to present at the coming general election the question of putting the city of Lincoln in further competition with individual business by asking voters to authorize the sale of gasoline and oil at wholesale and retail at a cost price to the city, and

"Whereas, regardless of the kind of service or commodity sold by a city or state to its people in competition with private enterprise this encroachment by the governing body has proven false economy, destructive in a measure to all business and as a general principle contrary to the accepted right of any and all individuals to engage in competitive business without direct and subsidized competition by the governing body, and

"Whereas, the Lincoln chamber of commerce is the organization in Lincoln that represents the business and professional life—both employers and employees.

"Therefore be it resolved, That the board of directors of the Lincoln chamber of commerce, for the present good and the growth of all business of the city, oppose this latest move to dsetroy individual business, believing that if this question were presented in all its phases and thought thru, the voters of this city would check this additional encroachment on private enterprise both for their own self interests and good of the community"

PUBLIC ASKS THORO PROBE

BASEBALL FANS OVER COUNTRY NOT SATISFIED.

Polling Opinion Shows Big Percentage Favor Full Investigation of Recent Attempt at Bribery.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Demand for full public investigation of the details of Commissioner Landis' investigation into the attempt to bribe Shortstop Sand of the Philadelphia National league club which resulted in the ousting from organized baseball of Outfielder O'Connell and Coach Cozy Dolan of the New York Nationals, is contained in expressions of opinion gathered from all over the country by the North American Newspaper Alliance and the Lincoln Journal.

A large percentage of these opinions hold that there must be a further sweeping investigation if the integrity of the National pastime is to be protected. Some declare that this inquiry should be gotten under way at once without waiting for the conclusion of the worlds series between the Giants and Washington. Some criticism of Judge Landis is voiced, but in the main complete faith that he is handling the matter as should be handled is expressed.

Expect Sweeping Probe.

It is suggested that he will undoubtedly go deeper into the matter after the world series. In the main the belief is spoken that the public is not satisfied with the situation as it has developed up to the present time. A statement of Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania that "Everything possible must be done to get to the bottom of this bribery scandal and all those shown to be involved must be dealt with in a manner that will serve as a warning to others," is typical of those that want the game completely cleansed!

Those who have faith that Commissioner Landis is handling and will handle the situation adequately are well represented by Senator Samuel M. Shortridge of California, Hans Wagner, the great old shortstop of the Pittsburgh Nationals, and Mayor Zehrung of Lincoln, Neb., former president of the Western league.

"I have known Judge Landis for a long time and he is a just man," said Senator Shortridge. "I am willing to be guided by what he thinks best for the game."

Wagner's statement: "Judge Landis has proven himself big enough to handle any situation. The present scandal is a bungling job. I think it originated on the spur of the moment and was given no thought or it would not have been done, as it was a hundred to one shot the Giants would win one game of the Philly series. I'll leave it with Landis." Messages received here today said:

From Washington.

Isaac Gans, president of the chamber of commerce: "Judge Landis is a man of high judicial training and since he was elected as the arbitrator of baseball I believe the public should accept his decision."

Edward F. Collady, president of board of trade: "All can be satisfied that a thoro investigation has been made and the public has been satisfied with the decision of a man of the character and standing of Judge Landis."

From Philadelphia.

J. Hampton. Moore, former mayor: "Whoever is responsible for the bribe should not be spared It is necessary in a case of this kind that a full investigation be conducted"

Governor Pinchot: "As a baseball fan of long standing I feel that everything possible must be done to get to the bottom of this bribery scandal and all those shown to be involved must be dealt with in a manner that will serve as a warning to others I am not prepared to say what procedure should be adopted but the responsible authorities can afford to overlook no opportunity to save the game from crooks, bribers, gamblers and grafters."

Lawson Robertson, American Olympic track and field coach "I believe the best interests of organized baseball and public confidence require publication of the complete details of the Landis investigation I believe a searching public investigation should be inaugurated"

From St. Louis

Judge Robert W. Hall "The public is entitled to know all the details of the scandal to know if anyone is being shielded"

Thomas M Kearney racing expert "I believe baseball has too much Landis I think he acted too hastily The public wants to know all details of the scandal.

EXTOLS THE EX-SOLDIERS

Coolidge Again Outlines Attitude Toward Bonus.

TRIBUTE TO CONSTITUTION

Repeats Opposition to League of Nations.

Declares It Cheap and Unworthy to Tell Service Men, "You Have Offered Life—Dollar Discharges Debt."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—At the dedication of the First Division monument here today, President Coolidge extolled the services of American soldiers in the great war, and re-outlined his attitude toward the bonus, the constitution, courts, government ownership, and the league of nations.

He called on American veterans to serve their country as vigorously in peace as they had in war.

"I am well aware that it is impossible to maintain in time of peace the same exalted spirit of patriotism that exists in time of war," he said, "and yet altho it may be in a less degree, the country has need of devotion to the same ideals

"What is always of the utmost importance, if we have the privilege to vote we must inform ourselves of the questions at issue, and going to the ballot box on election day, there vote, as we claim the sacred right of Americans to live, according to the dictates of our conscience."

The president then gave his views on some of the more important issues he felt were before the people at this time.

1—Of the bonus, he said: "How poor and cheap and unworthy would be that attitude which said: 'You have offered your life. Here is your dollar. That discharges the debt. Take it and go.'"

2—The constitution: "You have supported the constitution and the flag which is its symbol; not only because it represents to you the homeland, but because you know it is the sole source of American freedom."

3—The courts: "You want your rights protected by the impartial judicial decisions of the courts, where you will have a right to be heard and not be exposed to the irresopnisble determination of partisan political action."

4—Government ownership: "You want to have your earnings and your property secure. You want free and fair oportunity to conduct your business and make your way in the world without danger of being overcome by a government monopoly."

5—League of nations: "If there is anything which is dear to Americans, which they are bound to preserve at all hazards, it is our independence. I mean by that the privilege of reserving to themselves the choice of their own and the decision of their own actions."

6—General international affairs: "I am in favor of treaties and covenants conforming to the American policy of independence to prevent aggressive war and promote honorable peace."

THE DAY OF ATONEMENT

Jewish Festival, Yom Kippur, Observed Twenty-four Hours From Tuesday at Sunset.

From sunset Tuesday, October 7, until sunset Wednesday evening, October 8, the Jewish people will, everywhere gather for the observance of Yom Kippur in their several places of worship and revive their confidence in the eventual triumph of God's love and justice, and the brotherhood of man.

The Day of Atonement, known as Yom Kippur in Hebrew, is mentioned in the bible. In the book of Leviticus, chapter 16, the elaborate priestly ceremonial of atonement is described.

The public service of the Day of Atonement begins at sun-down with a solemn and plaintive prayer-melody, known as Kol Nidre ("all vows") to the conscience of the individual. Thruout the whole day following, the service is continuous, the intent of which is to awaken within the worshipper a consciousness of his need to orientate himself spiritually, that he may the more worthily do his work in this world.

In modern times a memorial service is also a feature of the day. This service reminds the worshipper that death is a consummation of life, and should not be feared.

SIDE TALKS

(By Ruth Cameron)

The summer has gone.

It doesn't seem possible, but it's true.

It never does seem possible. Always when Labor day or the opening of school, or whatever marks the end of summer in our existence comes around again, we stand gazing after the retreating season with incredulous eyes, asking ourselves and each other: "Where has it gone to?"

"Why, it seems but yesterday that summer came," we say, "and there were so many things that we were going to do and here it is fall again and we haven't done half of them."

Why, This Is Our Life

And then perhaps an even sadder thought intrudes its ugly head—that this "time" which is rushing by us so swiftly is our life. "Time" is going to keep on like that until someday we gaze incredulously back and see that life itself is behind us, and that we haven't done half what we meant to.

In the fall we comfort ourselves by saying that next summer we shall find more time to read, more time to get outdoors and the children, that we shall make an opportunity to look up that old friend who summers near us, and that we shan't let the days slip by us without getting more out of them.

But when the autumn of our life time comes we can hardly plan for next summer.

And yet again, perhaps we can.

There is a passage in "Ships that Pass in the Night" which I often quote because I love it so well.

Another Chance.

"If there be a God, some intelligence greater than human intelligence, He will understand better than ourselves that life is very hard and difficult, and He will be astonished not because we are not better, but because we are no worse. At least that would be my notion of God. I should not worry if I were you. Just make up your mind to do better if you get the chance and be content with that."

I think we all love that idea of another chance.

No wonder the doctrines of reincarnation find so many believers.

If you were given the choice between a pass into Heaven and the chance to live another life on earth, which would you choose?

But Look At Heaven This Way

Doubtless it is because we lack the imagination to compass Heaven, that it does not mean so much to us as it should. The idea of harps and flowing robes and a city of gold doesn't deeply appeal to many people, and they have no definite picture to put in its stead.

I read the other day a few words about Heaven that pleased me very much and gave me a better sense of its infinite possibilities than anything else I have ever seen:

"Never to be old and tired and sick, the negatives of Heaven, what must its great affirmatives be?"

That's, a thought to make the passing of the summers much less depressing, don't you think so?

Expert testimony was introduced in the Pothier trial.

BAN STARTS FINISH FIGHT

STONEHAM AND M'GRAW ALSO TARGET OF JOHNSON.

Wants Instant Dismissal of All Ball Players Connected in Any Way With Crookedness.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Aroused by the rebuffs of Commissioner of Baseball Landis, Ban B. Johnson, president of the American league has announced a finish fight on Landis. Charles A. Stoneham, principal owner of the New York Giants and John McGraw manager of the Giants. Johnson said he was determined to drive "corruption" out of organized baseball and announced he had instructed his attorneys to decide on a plan of action.

Johnson said he would not be satisfied until Landis Stoneham and McGraw are out of baseball. Likewise he wants the instant dismissal of all ball players who are connected in any way with crookedness in baseball.

Johnson is angry because Landis ignored his demand or cancellation of the world series in view of the confession of Jimmy O'Connell of the Giants that he tried to bribe a Philadelphia player to throw the last game between the two teams.

"Hell is going to be popping in a few days," Johnson declared. "I will stand for no more nonsense and I know that the public is back of me in my demand that this whole nasty mess be aired and the guilty ones punished.

"My reasons for demanding the retirement of Commissioner Landis from organized baseball are simply this. Landis, in the face of this scandal attending the winning of the National league pennant by New York and the reports concerning arrangements for the world series, is deliberately seeking to hush things up. That is no way to deal with the situation.

"The facts concerning this scandal must be brought out. I am going to see that it is done.

Landis looks to me like an irresponsible character. He hasn't the judgment, in organized baseball, of a ten-year-old."

Referring to his demand for the ousting of Stoneham and McGraw, Johnson said.

"Stoneham and McGraw—those are the names we hear every time there are reports of a scandalous nature cropping up in the game."

Johnson said he believed O'Connell when he said he was only the "goat."

Johnson said he wanted to know who was behind the bribe offer.

"The players did not do it themselves," he said. "Suppose for instance that it would have been worth $150,000 to the Giants to get into the world series. Suppose some gamblers, or some men associated with them wanted to make sure they would win the pennant and get into the world series. It seems probable that the same gang that wanted the Giants to win the pennant by crooked means would also seek to corrupt the series itself. That's what we want to find out, and you may rest assured that the men assisting me in this investigation are not going to be fooled, intimidated or called off."

Investigation also is being made of rumors of "a disgraceful situation," attending the 1922 world series, Johnson said.

"I am having these rumors investigated and I expect that they will be taken up later in a more thoro fashion," he said.

No serious damage was reported.

Clemens, district superintendent, will preach the morning sermon at 10:30. The program is as follows: Basket dinner, at church, 12:30. Junior services at 2:30, Rev. A. J. Cocheil in charge. Dedication speech at 3:00, Dr. Clemens.

Havelock.

Laurence Tanel, Havelock, was arrested by Officer Harlan on a charge of operating a motor vehicle with a whistle wide open. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs. E. Dahlberg, Lincoln, was arrested Wednesday by Officer Simms on a charge of speeding and ordered to appear in Havelock police court Thursday. He failed to appear and a charge of resisting an officer was filed against him. Saturday morning his attorney pleaded guilty for him on the charge of speeding. It is understood that the charge of resisting an officer will be dismissed.

The Havelock athletic field was dedicated Friday. A large crowd of people turned out for the dedication. C. V. Vemer, mayor, gave a short address. A seven foot board fence has been erected around the entire field, in order to make it easier to collect the admission fee to athletic events. Previously the field had been open and it was almost impossible to collect admission charges.

Cindering of Thirteenth street between K and N streets is now in progress. The project is being carried out by the abutting property owners. A six inch coat of cinders is being put on. It is estimated that a coat of cinders will last about five years and is much cheaper than paving.

September births in Havelock: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Karis, a daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Laws, a son.

MANY TO SEE THE GAME

Railroad trains entering Lincoln during the forenoon carried business that rivalled their state fair crows. Nearly every train brought in delegations here to see the game. People coming in over the highways said auto traffic was heavy and the city filled up with out of town cars quickly during the early hours of the day.

A crowd of Omaha men came in on No. 5 on the Burlington and it was said a later train would bring a much larger number of Omaha fans.

Two general managers of the Burlington railroad arrived during the morning to be on hand when the whistles blow—E. Flynn of the lines west and W. F. Thiehoff of the lines east. Mr. Thiehoff rarely misses a Nebraska game of the first magnitude. Mr. Flynn has just returned from a hunting trip in the sandhill country northwest.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: I just got thru reading your good advice you give to people. I am writing to let you know that for myself I think it is great and that people should abide by what you tell them and the answer you just gave to that woman seems enough to convince any one that she is a fooling away her life to marry a man such as she spoke of and I will say right near that I was left with two children and I kept them together until the boy was old enough to go out and work. He is 17 years old and the girl 15. And my wife has been dead eight years past as the good Lord seen it best to call her home and I have not had what you would call home since, but I make the best of it. I am a poor man and have to work for a living and I have not only missed three days this summer and I drive two miles every morning and night. Leave at six and get home at six thirty but the worst part of it is leaving my girl alone so much, but I tell her all that a man can about how she should do so as not to get in trouble like lots of them do and she is so easy to reason with. I am 48 past and do not run around of nights just stay at home and read my paper till about 8:30 and then I go to bed as I never believed in staying out late of nights and as for work, I like it and seem to be at it when others are laying around. As my letter is getting rather long I think I will bring it to a close hoping to see it in print and hope that I may hear from that widow as I think I can give her some good advice myself about a drinking man.—W. L. C.

A. Keeping a home without a wife and mother is a hard task. The hats of the column will be off to you, I know.

A. B.: Will you please send me your name and address. I have a letter for you.

Dear Mary Gordon: To be married in Iowa do you have to have your names published ten days ahead of time? If this is true when was this law passed?—Thank You.

A. No, one can be married in Iowa immediately after securing the license. The same applies in Kansas and Colorado.

Butterfly: You must make the choice yourself—a "good time" or a good man.

Winkie: Would it be so hard to give him up? Why not try some other boy, or a change?

Dear Mary Gordon: Please give me a budget for family of our earning $250 a month.—F. B. M.

A. For a family of our following a budget:

Savings	$12.00
Insurance	15.00
Food	58.00
Shelter	60.00
Clothing	40.00
Operating	30.00
Advancement	35.00

Operating includes light, heat, gas, etc. Advancement is magazines, books and amusements.

Dear Mary Gordon: Would you please tell me what is correct in calling upon friends, how many cards should I leave, and my husband's, if any, how many"—C. L.

A. A wife beginning her rounds of first calls, leaves two of her husband's cards and one of her own. She does this when she comes to congratulate or condole, and when she pays her final calls of the season.

When a wife calls on a friend who is entertaining for a friend or relative and the invitation included her husband, she leaves three of his cards with one or her own if the hostess is a married woman, two of his and one of hers if she is single. She never leaves one of her husband's cards for an unmarried daughter.

If a married woman calls in return for some hospitality shown her and her husband, she leaves two of her own cards and two of his. But if it is just a social call, she leaves only her own card. The card should never be handed to the hostess, but given to the servant or if there is none, left on the hall table or on the card tray.

COME TO CHURCH

BRING A FRIEND

This is a Special-Nation-Wide GO TO CHURCH WEEK. It is a good time to start a good habit.

Few persons think things through. If everybody reasoned this matter of church-going to its logical conclusion there would not be many vacant pews, and a widespread demand for more churches would speedily arise.

The reason is simple: People do not stay away from church because they are opposed to religion or to the church. Far from it. Nearly everybody believes that the Church is absolutely necessary to our civilization. If its existence were threatened, the great mass of the people would fight for it.

But by some curious kink in their mental processes, many non-Church-goers fail to perceive that if everybody else followed their example—and every honest person grants others the right to do as he does—the churches would quickly pass out of existence.

Every non-attendant upon religious services virtually votes for the elimination of the institution from society.

If a person believes that the world needs the Church, he has but one clear, unmistakable and unanswerable way of stating his position. That is by regular attendance. The man who goes to church stands for an indispensable institution, even as a good citizen stands for the state by voting.

Absenteeism from the ballot-box and absenteeism from church are kindred failures in duty to society. Of course, that is not the best reason for church attendance. We go to church primarily to express our belief in God and to do Him reverence. The loftiest truth about man is that he is made in the image of the Divine and has a capacity for fellowship with the Infinite.

Worship is the highest function of which human nature is capable. The world does not know much about creeds but when it sees a person attending divine worship it understands him to say by his action "I believe in God."

Thoughtful persons stand for the Church, also because the Church stands for the best things. The Church-goer lines up with the forces which make for righteousness. He is on the side of the people who want to live the noblest lives themselves, and who are trying to help this needy world to do the same.

The most efficient agency of human service on earth is the Church. The churchman is a sharer in all the world-wide beneficence of the organization.

They who would make their lives count should be counted among those upon whom the Church may count.

In case of illness, death or other trouble, any minister will be glad to help.

What Dicky Thought About His Mother's Fear.

NOT daring to come into the hall for fear the sight of me would spoil the effect of my ruse, I watched my small son through a crack in my door, and silently applauded the success of his appeal to my mother-in-law. For Junior, who adores his grandmother, had far bettered my injunction to tell her he was sorry for the naughtiness which was primarily the cause for her brainstorm. Letting loose the genuine grief and terror which was in his small heart, he was weeping so wildly that Mother Graham was compelled to check the sweep of her own emotions for a moment in order to pacify him.

"Granzie's darling baby," she said, her voice tremulous and ragged with the tears she was suppressing. "I knew you love her, sweetheart, if nobody else does. Come into Granzie's room, and sit in her lap and comfort her."

The tears of self-pity overflowed again as she began to walk toward her room, leading her small grandson by the hand. But she was compelled to check them again, for Junior began to dance up and down in a spasm of terror.

"Don't cry, Granzie!" he shrieked. "Don't cry!"

"No, precious, I won't," she promised and then her door closed after them. I opened mine gingerly, and Dicky, who had been standing in the hall, dodged expertly into my room.

"Shut the door quietly," he urged, wiping his forehead in a burlesque of tension, relieved. "Gee, but that was a close thing! I expected to be strewn all over the landscape if mother got to going good. You sure threw out the shock troops just in time. Poor Junior! He was frightened half out of his senses by her, but he certainly turned the trick. Of course, I know you sent him out, but he must have added a few flourishes on his own account. Even your fertile brain couldn't have staged all that stunt."

"Still Sore?"

There was a levity in his voice that grated. Dicky had been mostly responsible for his mother's brainstorm, and he had been a witness of the suffering which had come to her at her inadvertent mention of her dead daughter's name. Yet, he could laugh, and treat the whole sad exhibition as if it had been a puppet show arranged for his entertainment.

I told myself that it was this apparent callousness of Dicky's which aroused my resentment. But in a deeper, more honest stratum of my soul I knew that my real grievance was his delay in apologizing for the irritating and unjust things he had said to me concerning my discipline of Junior.

"I told Junior nothing except to say that he was sorry for his actions," I said a trifle coldly. "The child was wild with terror at her threat to leave."

Dicky walked up to me, put his hands on my shoulders, swung me around facing him and looked steadily into my eyes.

"Still sore?" he inquired off-handedly, but there was a subtle note in his voice that suddenly made it impossible for me to cherish resentment against him.

A Woman's Heart.

"Not very," I said smiling, then added more soberly. "But I don't think mother's brainstorm this time is a subject for levity. There have been times when I have been irritated or amused at her. But don't you realize how horribly she must be suffering just now because of her realization that there is no place on earth for her but just this house, our home? For the first time she fully comprehends that with Lisa dead and Harriet in South America, she must stay here, whether she wishes or not."

"I don't realize anything of the sort," Dicky rejoined stubbornly. "I call mother a mighty lucky woman if you ask me. She has a comfortable home and the best room in the house. She is waited on like a princess—no, they're apt to be doing the waiting nowadays—well—say like a bootlegger's daughter.

"She doesn't express a wish that isn't gratified," he went on more soberly, "and when she stages one of these tantrums she is humored and coaxed out of it, instead of being soundly spanked as she would be if she were sixty years younger. Where do you get this 'horrible suffering' stuff? When you think of the thousands of old women scrubbing floors for pay or being household drudges in the families of relatives who don't want them, or——"

"Everything you say is true," I said, "but—you can't understand a woman's heart—because—well because—that's all! Ninety-nine per cent of the time, your mother wouldn't change places with any other woman in the world, but the other one per cent she does suffer with the most natural longing of any woman's heart—for a place of her very own. And you ought to realize it and make allowances for her!"

IN the game of love the cards are dealt evenly and only two suits have any significance.

And the two? What else could they be but diamonds and hearts? First, trump your partner's hand with a heart, then claim the prize of the kiss, then the diamonds are called on to prove to all the world the plighting of your troth. But only two can play—and always for "Hearts."

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, OCTOBER 5—6.

Sunday's horoscope is not particularly auspicious, although spiritual matters and ecclesiastical activities should flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of anxiety in certain directions, although other affairs will flourish. A child born on this day should be educated in perseverance as well as self-reliance.

Monday's astrological forecast is for an active year, with new business and gratifying renewal of contracts, but speculation and all risk of moneys should be avoided.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a prosperous year, with new business and contracts. A child born on this day will succeed in its affairs.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT The Gold of Tact

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THE cook is delighted.

The housemaid is going—that's one of the reasons the cook is so pleased—she never did like the housemaid, anyway. Uppish sort of a person, with too high an opinion of herself! Just because she was young and not bad looking and had a knack of waiting on the table, she thought herself above a good, honest cook, and didn't mind showing it.

Winifred Black.

The new housemaid—oh, there isn't going to be any!

The cook is going to do the work of two—to be sure, she's going to get five dollars a month extra, but she doesn't care so much about that. What she likes is having the housemaid sent away.

Of course, after the housemaid is gone and she has to serve dinner, as well as cook it, and when the children come in late to luncheon and she has to stop and help "tidy them up"—it will be a little hard.

And all the sweeping and dusting and that kind of thing—yes, there's no doubt that the cook is going to do twice as much work from now on! But what of that? Think of the fun of saying, "You see, now!" to the housemaid.

And then, besides, the people where the cook lives appreciate her so.

What the Mistress Said

They've never said much about it before, but they say a great deal now. Why, when the mistress of the house told the cook she was going to send the maid away, she said:

"You must, promise me one thing, Ellen—evenings when my husband and I are out, you must not sit up and wait for us—just because the children are asleep upstairs and we don't want them to be left alone.

"I couldn't think of imposing on you like that. Why, I wouldn't have a bit of pleasure all evening if I thought of you, tired and sleepy, sitting up listening for the sound of the key in the lock! Promise me now that you will sleep upstairs in the maid's room, close to the children, every time my husband and I go out."

And the good cook was so overcome with the idea of the kindness and consideration of the mistress of the house that she fairly shed tears.

No wonder she wants to stay in such a family.

Who wouldn't?

What She Really Meant

Of course, what the mistress of the house really meant was:

"Now, Ellen, I can't have the children up there alone on the third floor and you down in the basement sound asleep, so on the nights my husband and I go out, you'll have to stay at home and go to bed early—on the third floor—so that if the children want anything, don't you see——

"I couldn't have a minute's peace at the theatre or the supper if I thought of those children way up there alone—they might get frightened or something, and then, the littlest one is liable to croup, you know."

But she didn't say that—not that way.

Clever woman!

She said it the other way, and that makes all the difference between getting the cook to do what she wants her to do and having an old-fashioned row on her hands.

Now, if we all had as much tact and cleverness as that—I wonder if we'd have as much trouble in the house and out of it.

It doesn't make such a difference whether you say, "your face is as red as a beet" or "your cheeks are like roses"—and you mean the same thing all the time.

May God send the gift of tact—it's worth a dozen gold spoons in your mouth.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes an Unusually Dainty Dance Frock.

ANOTHER one of Madame's very young clients came into the shop this afternoon.

"I want to consult you about evening things for the coming season, Madame," she announced.

Madame smiled in her kindly way and led the young lady to a soft divan where they could talk at their ease.

I was sitting nearby, waiting to be called for a fitting.

"Are you going to use many beaded treatments?" the young girl asked.

"Yes, indeed," Madame replied. Do you like beads?"

"I'm simply crazy about them," the pretty young girl replied. "I've been so afraid they would go out of fashion and I couldn't have any for my coming-out season."

"There's no danger of that," Madame replied.

"What kind of dance frock must I get first?" the client asked enthusiastically. "I want something to wear right away."

Madame stopped to consider her client a moment and then said:

"I'll tell you this about beaded things: We are using beads again as lavishly than we did last season. Where they appear they are most often in very delicate designs, strikingly applied. Even when evening gowns carry an all-over beaded design, the pattern is lightly put on and never thickly applied."

"I think beads are prettier when they are used lightly," the client answered.

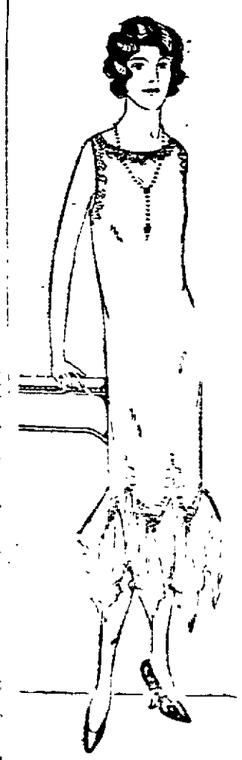

"Then for you I advise a dainty chiffon," Madame began.

"I love chiffon," the young girl interposed.

She dashed over to the desk, procured pencil and pad, and returned to her place beside the client.

There were a few moments marked only by rapid pencil strokes, then Madame said:

This Orchard Chiffon Frock Is Embroidered in Glass Beads and Edged With Silk Net.

"We'll use beads, glass ones in pastel colors."

"I can't wait," the client responded.

"The chiffon gown will be slim and straight and edged about the neck and armholes and pointed hemline in the pastel-colored bead design," Madame said, holding the sketch for her client to see.

"I like the fluffy effect about the bottom," the young lady said approvingly.

"That will be of orchid tulle, several layers of it which supply a slight flare about the bottom of the dress," Madame informed her.

The young girl clasped her hands enthusiastically.

"I must have it for Gladys' dinner-party next week," she said, with an entreating note in her voice. "We're going to dance afterward, and I just know I'd have a good time in that dress."

Madame smiled and promised that the dress would be ready.

YOUR HEALTH

How to Let a Young Baby Exercise the Safest Way

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND.

WHO can resist the heart appeal of a cooing, gurgling, smiling baby?

The sight of an infant given the freedom of a blanket in the sunlight, is enough to bring tears of appreciation to the eyes of the most hardened wretch in the world. I saw a baby, yesterday, four months old, and sweet as a rosebud. The little thing would put half her hand in her tiny mouth, trying to catch hold of her restless tongue.

The surest test of the welfare of the infant is the increase in weight. But you don't want Baby merely fat. You want Baby to be strong and muscular.

A new baby moves very little, but in a few weeks it kicks and punches its arms about. If its clothing and coverings permit, it indulges in the freest movements.

The young parents must bear in mind that a little baby is a pretty delicate morsel of humanity. Its back must be supported until the muscles develop.

I saw the father of the tiny baby I just spoke of catch Baby by the hands and pull her to a sitting position. A little later the mother lifted Baby by grasping her chest under the arms.

It is better for the baby, much safer, indeed, to lift the lower part of the body by the clothing and then slip the flat hands under the back. This permits full support of the back and head and guards against accidents.

The mother should take pains not to carry the baby on the same arm all the time. Shift from side to side and in this way, permit both sides of the baby's body to develop equally.

Dress the little one in such a simple way as to permit the freest possible movement of the limbs. It will be better still to let the undressed infant play on a blanket. This is equal to gymnasium training.

When the child is taken out in the baby carriage, thought must be given to its posture. When the youngster is several months old he won't be satisfied to be laid out flat on his back. He will be happier if he is propped up on extra pillows, supporting his sides, as well as his back.

The nearer you approximate for Baby the simple life of a young animal the better it is for your child.

Good Night Stories

BETTY CHANGES HER MIND ABOUT SOME THINGS.

"OH dear," Betty complained as she spied the plain dress her Mama had laid on the bed for her to wear to Sunday school, "I wish I had some fancy clothes to wear. Other little girls wear fancy clothes and I——"

"Never have any," laughed a merry voice and Gocomeback, the wee travel elfin, stepped out from behind the big arm chair and tipped his tall pointed cap to Betty.

"Talk about fancy clothes, you should see a little friend of mine," and before Betty could ask any questions at all she found herself standing in a strange, strange land.

"Where in the world are we, Gocomeback?" she whispered. Before the elfin could answer two little black heads and two copper colored faces peeked out from behind the bushes right in front of Betty. She caught hold of Gocomeback's hand as the two merry children bounded toward them.

"Where are you?" laughed one of the copper-colored youngsters, holding out her little copper-colored hand to Gocomeback. "She's up in the northern part of North America, isn't she, Gocomeback? We're so glad to see you, Brother Bald Eagle and I."

Betty's eyes widened with wonder and finally she laughed.

"Isn't that a funny name, Bald Eagle. Why you have long black hair!" And her eyes took in both the little copper-colored children's dresses.

Bald Eagle wore a deerskin shirt that hung outside his trousers. They fitted so tight they looked as if he had been poured into them and up both sides were run feathers from some bird. The shoes he wore were made of deerskin, all trimmed with bright blue and yellow beads and fitted his feet like stockings.

The little sister wore a long deerskin coat that fell down to her feet. All over it dangled elks' teeth with a long fringe of beads all around the bottom. Her feet were covered with moccasins made from the skin of a fawn trimmed with red and blue beads. She wore beads of all colors strung around her neck and arms.

"We're Glad to See You."

"Were you going to a party?" Betty asked when she had finished her survey of the youngsters.

"Oh, no indeed," laughed the little copper-colored girlie, "These are our every-day clothes."

"You mean to say you're always dressed just like you are now?" Betty asked glancing down at her plain little white frock.

"Yes," sighed the little copper-colored girlie, "we Indians in this part of the country always dress just like you see my brother and I. I like your little plain dress—but—well we always dress this way, so we have to be content," and grabbing her little brother's hand the two youngsters scampered away.

Betty looked down at her little plain white dress and when she looked up again she stood in her own little bedroom gazing in the mirror at her reflection.

"Well, I guess no matter how we're dressed we always want something different," she mused. "I guess I'd rather have on this plain dress than to have to wear a dress like those children," and humming merrily she kissed her Mama good-by and hurried off to Sunday school.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Are You Planning to Refurnish the Nursery?

NURSERY furniture has become a staple in furniture circles and each season we find it more charming than ever before. Interior decorators prepare a room for the fittings in these days like an appropriate frame for a picture, taking into consideration the style and period of the house, its natural lighting, the situation of the room, and the future occupants, their ages tastes and looks. This means the most perfect harmony and happiest surroundings.

There are three sizes in the nursery suites—that for wee run-arounds, then for the five to nine year youngsters, then the next size that is not outgrown until the fifteenth year. Strictly speaking, the first is the real nursery furniture, yet many refurnish as fast as the children outgrow the things and pass them on to young relatives and friends.

Needless to say the furniture chosen is of the painted variety though it is also to be had in the straight woods. One white enamel set is decorated with bluebirds, the straight chair and rocker having cane seats and backs painted blue like the birds. In the room where the set was to be used the woodwork was white, the paper silver and white striped with a cut-out bluebird border, and the floor of polished oak had blue and white woven rugs scattered over it. The draperies of white fluted muslin had ties of blue ribbon the shade of the bird's wings. The play chest was covered with bluebird cretonne.

Nursery breakfast sets are rather new and consist of the small round or oblong tables with as many chairs to match as are needed. They seat four very comfortably. These sets are in white, gray or blue with colored decorations. Some have two inch borders in floral design, Grecian key, or alternate colored blocks. Others have the alphabet in a medallion in the center or in a border running around the edge of the table. The small chairs in many sets are bent wood with cane seat.

The nursery screens have frames to match the furniture, but the panels are covered to match the draperies, or with one of the nursery prints that tell a story. In one case my eye was caught with white muslin and the children were allowed to paste picture cut-outs on it as a special privilege and when they got tired of the pictures they were easily removed and fresh ones pasted in their place.

The wooden soldier set is always a favorite especially with small boys, for soldiers form the legs of the chairs and tables, stand at either side of the locking glass on the dressing table, and appear again as bed posts. The military colors of the uniforms are quite gay looking on the white woodwork of the set.

The pleasant coloring used on some of the sets is very striking but the linens embroidered to match together all into a harmonious whole. There are a number of chintz wall papers that go with the style of decoration, especially those having floral medallions on soft wet soft green backgrounds, which are most effective.

ADVICE TO GIRLS :: :: :: By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I met a young man about a year ago. I love him and I think he loves me too. How can I tell whether he loves me?

LITTLE HOPE.

LITTLE HOPE: If the young man loves you he will show it by his actions and will prove it by asking you to be his wife.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in my teens and am in love with a young man about two years my senior.

Now this young man is not in this city but a long distance from here. Before leaving he asked me not to go with other boys; that he was going away to work for me and when he got back we would be married. I do not like to sit around home all the time without going with any young men.

Please give me some advice for we are not engaged, although I love him best, and never have loved any other. He says he doesn't go with other girls, and is always talking about when we are to be married. But we don't know when that will be for he has got to get a start, and we are both too young to marry yet. Do you think if I loved him in the right way I would be willing to wait three or four years, and not go with any one else?

BLUE-EYED BABY.

BLUE-EYED BABY: You are very wise to look at the matter so sensibly. So many young girls make the mistake of making such promises without thinking of the future. You are right in doubting the wisdom of restricting yourself to the friendship of one man. You are both still young and will probably meet many people who would make valuable friends. This, despite the fact that in the end you may still decide that you care for each other best of all. The fact that you live so far away from each other is a further difficulty. For when people do not come into personal contact for a long period of time they usually lose interest in each other. Explain to your friend that at the present time you care more for him than for any one else and that if you continue to feel that way when he is ready to marry, you will be proud to marry him, but that in the meantime, since you are not engaged, you do not think it would be fair to either of you to give up all your other friends or to expect him to do so. My best wishes to you.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of the paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

DR. FLIPPIN CASE CLOSED

Department of Public Welfare Considering Question of Revocation of License.

The showing made Friday by Dr Charles Flippin of Grand Island before the department of public works as to why his license as a physician should not be revoked was taken under consideration by Dr J D. Case, secretary of the department and the members of the physicians' examining board.

Dr. Case and the examiners called upon Assistant Attorney General Ayres during the afternoon to discuss the legal phases of the case. The department is considering the court record which shows Dr. Flippin pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to commit a criminal operation, the charge of having committed such an operation being dismissed, and a fine of $400 imposed.

Whether or not the court had authority to add to the judgment an alleged agreement of Dr. Flippin to stop the practice of medicine in Nebraska is said not to be material. The doctor now alleges he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge with the understanding that a felony charge should be dismissed and that he is innocent of the attempt to commit a criminal operation and pleaded guilty to this charge because he felt he was physically unable to go thru a trial in court. He said he did not agree to quit the practice of medicine in Nebraska.

The statute gives the department of public welfare power to revoke the license of a physician for conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude or for unprofessional or dishonorable conduct. The attorney general's department holds that an attempt to commit a criminal operation is an offense involving moral turpitude and the department of public welfare has authority to revoke a license in such cases if it sees fit to do so.

HIGH ATTACKED BY MUTZ

Democrat Declares Anti-Saloon Man Usse His Office for Republican Benefit.

The statement that F. A. High of the anti-saloon league as a wheelhorse in the republican party and is using his office for the purpose of benefitting the republican party was made by Sterling F. Mutz, who presided at the Saturday noon of the Democratic Luncheon club. Rev. J. F. Thompson, who has been campaigning for the democratic party in Nebraska under the state committee, gave encouraging reports. INSURNACE COMPANY LOSES

Supreme Court Stands by Previous Decision With Respect to Agent's Powers.

The supreme court Saturday denied a rehearing in the case of Robinson against the Union Automobile insurance company, from Buffalo county. It stands by its original decision after having listened to arguments on the request for a rehearing.

The case is regarded by insurance men as of great importance. Robinson contended that he thought he was buying full coverage when he purchased insurance for his automobile, and that the agent from whom he bought it told him so. The legal question was whether the soliciting agent of an insurance company has power to bind his company by his own representations as to what a policy contains. The court said he had.

It was vigorously argued by the attorneys for the insurance company that a contract of insurance is not made by agents, but by officers duly empowered to bind the company by their acts. They said that this ruling would overturn the settled law of the state with respect to the power of agents, and foster endless litigation.

MACCABEES IN A CARAVAN

Five Thousand May Spend Day in Lincoln on Way to National Conclave at Washington.

A caravan of some five thousand Maccabees will pass thru Lincoln enroute to the national conclave of the order at Washington next July, if plans of S. S. Burgin, supervising deputy of Iowa and Nebraska, are put thru.

Delegates from all the western states are to meet in Denver and proceed toward Washington over a route to be selected. A. W. Frye, supreme commander, will come to Nebraska next week from Washington, and spend Monday in Omaha and Tuesday in Lincoln, conferring with Governor Bryan and chamber of commerce officials. H. W. Strubbe is in charge of local arrangements, and a party of Omaha Maccabees will accompany the commander here and be entertained at luncheon at the chamber.

Three factors are to be considered in the route over which the caravan will travel: Road conditions, scenic beauty, and interest maintested in the program. If Lincoln is on the route, the city will have at least 5,000 guests for a day.

EDITORS EAT LUNCH AND DISCUSS PLANS

Meet Business Men and Bankers at Chamber of Commerce Luncheon and Formulate a New Policy.

Newspaper editors from all over the state made up most of the group of a hundred or so that took luncheon Saturday in the chamber of commerce annex, the others being university people, business men and bankers. J. Cass Cornell, president of the chamber, welcomed the newspaper folk and Mrs. Marie Weekes responded. James E. Lawrence of the university extension department presided.

James F. Lawrence spoke briefly on the advance of rural journalism in the past ten years, attributing it partly to the press association and partly to the consecration and devotion of the editors to the service of the state. He said the city press drew its best material from the ranks of small town editors and reporters.

Will Owen Jones told how Lincoln newspapers make use of the university, and commended that those thruout the state take advantage of the same opportunity. He also urged that the editors make themselves acquainted with the rest of the dozen colleges, as they have this week with the agricultural college.

Director Brokaw of the extension service, Chancellor Avery and D. H. Otis of the American Bankers association agricultural committee, made brief talks.

S. A. OFFICER TO SPEAK.

Staff Captain Victor Lundgren, of Omaha, divisional commander of the Salvation Army in Nebraska will speak at several meetings in Lincoln Sunday. He will speak at 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m at the army hall. At 3 p. m. he will have charge of an open air meeting at Antelope park if the weather permits. ILLINOIS HOLDS BEST OF WEIGHT

Total weight of backfield—Illinois, 701; (average, 175). Nebraska, 668; (average, 167).

Total weight of team—Illinois, 2,033; (average, 184). Nebraska, 1,909; (average, 173).

Saturday morning found both Illinois and Nebraska in the throes of that calm which precedes a battle or storm. This time it is a battle.

Coach Dawson's last statement made Friday afternoon indicated that the Nebraska coaching staff would not be surprised at anything that might happen. The "green" texture of the Nebraska team has the Husker mentors guessing. They don't know what to expect.

Bob Zuppke, high chief of the Illini, was maintaining that he was still unable to see a favorite. He is predicting a great battle and is taking nothing for granted.

The Illinois line averages 190 pounds while the Husker forwards average 177. The Illini backfield averages 175 while Nebraska's averages 167. A difference of thirteen pounds in the line and eight pounds in the backfield to the man. The Illini as a team averages 184 and the Huskers 173, a difference of eleven pounds all the way thru.

BIG TEN INTO ACTION.

IOWA CITY, Oct. 4.—Coach Ingwersen's football huskies were ready for their first test of strength with Southeastern Teachers college of Oklahoma here today.

The squad went thru a final signal drill last night in a pouring rain. The heavy rains of yesterday may make the field heavy for the game today.

Darrell Fisher will not start, Coach Ingwersen intimated. The promising halfback who has been out because of illness will be saved for the first conference tilt with Ohio State next Saturday.

Parkin will probably start at quarter, Graham and Dauber at the halves, Fry or Scantlebury at full. On the line Romey and Otte will be on the wings, Hancock and Kraususki at tackle, Olson and Fleckstine at guard and Griffen at center. This is the same squad that Ingwersen has been using in practice for the past week.

Missouri Under a Handicap.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—The conference football season will be opened here this afternoon with games at the University of Chicago and Northwestern university.

Missouri will mix with Chicago and South Dakota fights Northwestern.

Many stars will be out of the Missouri line up because of injuries. Adams, brilliant passer of Missouri, may be out of the game because of an injured shoulder. Faurot, Missouri's star half and kicker, is out of the game, having been declared ineligible. Chicago is not handicapped by injuries.

South Dakota and Northwestern are almost evenly matched in weight but the visitors have the advantage of longer practice and one real game, this being their second for the season.

Ames Goes Against Badgers.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 4.—Two regulars, Butch Leitl, tackle, and Arlow Solbraa, end, were out of the lineup today as Jack Ryan's Badger eleven prepared to battle the heavy Iowa state college team from Ames here this afternoon. The Ames team arrived Friday afternoon and went thru a light signal drill and workout at Camp Randall.

Coach Ryan is expecting a hard game for his inexperienced cardinals. The sky was overcast with some prospect of rain.

Martineau Will Be Missed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 4—Bill Spaulding's Minnesota Gophers launch the 1924 season today in the new $1,400,000 stadium. North Dakota will oppose the local eleven.

With the entire first string eligible this year, Coach Spaulding is confident the Gophers have "great possibilities."

He will start Malcolm Graham at quarter, Lindberg at full and Asher and Peterson at the halfback positions. The loss of Earl Martineau, and last year's ends, Ecklund and Merrill, will be keenly felt, but the Gophers are looking forward to a good season.

Ulysses Battles Havelock to Tie

Ulysses and Havelock high school football teams battled four quarters to a 0 to 0 tie, on the new Shoptown gridiron Friday afternoon. Ulysses had the Havelock crew playing under its own goal posts on several different occasions and was within three yards of a touchdown in the last quarter, when turned back by the suburban's stonewall defense.

In the third stanza, Bolin of the visitors received a kickoff and made a sensational 65-yard run thru the entire Havelock field but was downed by Barrett on Havelock's 15-yard line. Ulysses lacked the punch to put across the winning tally. Warga, Shoptown halfback, who was out of the first half on account of a bad hand, took Hash's position in the back field and made several big gains.

Mayor Venner, of Havelock, gave a brief talk between halves, welcoming the visiting team and thanking the board of education for erecting the new athletic field. The lineups.

Chadron Wallops Rapid City Team

CHADRON, Neb., Oct. 3.—The Rapid City school of mines football machine, the most powerful in years, went down to a 7 to 0 defeat before the baffling line shifting attack of the Chadron Eagles Friday. At the close of the first half the count stood at nothing apiece.

Garvin, Eagle halfback, broke clear from a line shift play in the final period and pushed over for the touchdown. Kummer kicked goal.

Peru Wins From Tarkio College

TARKIO, Mo., Oct. 4.—A blocked punt and an intercepted pass gave Peru two touchdowns for a 12 to 0 victory over Tarkio college in the opening game here Friday. The play was in the center of the field for the most part but early in the first period the Peru lads blocked a kick and went over for a score. During the last five minutes of play, Butzenbach, Peru fullback, intercepted a pass and ran ninety yards for the second counter.

The winners excelled in line plunging but the Tarkio tacklers were hot on the job. Tarkio made ten first downs to Peru's seven and were outweighed twenty pounds to the man.

WHITE SOX AFTER CITY TITLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—(U. P.)—With the Chicago city series half won, the White Sox today determined to give the Cubs their third trimming of the annual battle. The Sox have won two games in the series and the Cubs one. Blankenship probably will pitch for the Sox today, and it was expected that either Aldridge or Kaufmann would be chosen to save the Cubs from the Americans' hitting.

GOLF LESSONS.

Is an upright swing more easily controlled than a flat swing? Why or why not? Which swing is best for a player of average build?

Answered by WILLIE OGG.

Present New England professional and Massachusetts Open champion. Metropolitan open champion, 1922. Shawnee Open champion, 1921. In 1922 scored a 65 for a record over the Lido course (Long Island), reputed to be the most difficult course in the world. The previous record was 72.

The swing that suits the player of average build is the upright swing. It is easier to get the ball up and most of the distance obtained is in the flight. A flat swing gives the ball too much run, which, with irons, is not desirable. It is also much easier to get a ball out of traps and rough with an upright swing. A flat swing is apt to sweep along the ground too much before coming in contact with the ball out of the rough.

An upright swing produces the steadiest players owing to having more freedom at the top of the swing. A flat swing tends to a cramped position at the top of the swing which is apt to bring the body in too soon. All flat swingers, as a rule, use their bodies a great deal more than upright swingers, which is the main reason why our best players all use the upright swing.

After Waiting Lifetime Washington Sees World Series

WASHINGTON SET FOR OPENING TILT

Bleacher Fans on Hand at 8 O'Clock in the Morning—Senator Fan Is First in Line—Notables Present.

BY FRANK GETTY.

OUTSIDE GRIFFITH STADIUM, WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Far as the eye could see thru the swirling mists from the Potomac stretched a seemingly endless line of humanity. Its head was pressed against the bleacher gates, its tail gathering fans like a vacuum cleaner, sucking them from every street and street car, from flivvers and a hundred fancier vehicles, drawing them with the irresistible lure of Washington's first world series.

The present series may set no new records for baseball but those for enthusiastic fandom already are shattered beyond repair.

They came from every quarter of the city and from every corner of the land, these dyed-in-the-wool and shivering in-the-early-morning fans, waiting for the bleacher gates to open.

By 8 a. m. there were 3,000 of them—an hour before the center field bleachers were to receive them in the first frantic rush.

It was a colorful throng. At least every third one in line was colored.

Bell First in Line.

The first man in line—he had been there since 12:30 p. m. Friday, was Charles W. Bell, an employe of the veterans' bureau here. Poking a blue nose from out his turned up coat collar, he picked the Nationals (as they insist on calling the Senators down here) to win.

To Fort Wayne, Ind., went the honor of supplying the second man, G. F. Hortsman. He, too, was for Washington.

On soap boxes and camp stools, with improvised entertainment and nondescript nourishment, these hardier of the enthusiasts saw it thru. Behind them gathered innumerable others. The line grew. Like a living serpent, each vertebra a fan darned hot inside and darned cold outside, it wound down one street around a corner and up another.

Everybody seemed to be rooting for the home team. They were so loyal they blessed the mist and darkness, because it would make things better for Johnson's fast ball.

If it had not been for "One-eye Connelly, who "crashed" and was arrested and released when he established his identity, New York rooters would have been practically non-existant. Down around the hotel lobbies, where visiting fandom was beginning to stir to wakefulness, however, the Giants had some friends.

Ball Game Comes First.

If there was any other business to interfere with the ball game, it was not mentioned.

Once awake, Washington resembled a college town during old home week. There was "Gabby" Street, who was Walter Johnson's first catcher, or at least the backstop with whom the Senators' ace won his greatest fame. "Gabby" who once caught a ball thrown from the top of Washington monument was out early at Potomac park to show a party of friends how he did it.

There was "Seeb" Milan, former fleet outfielder for Washington in the days when it was "Last in the American league."

There was Donnie Bush, another former pilot of the Senators and Cliff Blankenship, the backstop who discovered Walter Johnson.

Old timers even remembered Phil Baker, who captained the Washington team when this outfit was in the Eastern league.

The town and the visitors, the fans and the ball players, everybody seemed to have forgotten the late unpleasantness—the scandal in the Giants ranks—and to be concentrating on baseball and the question of who would win todays' game.

The trouble over the tickets was yesterday's trouble. The one big question mark in Washington today, on every one's lips, porters, taxi drivers, newsboys, telephone girls, clerks and cobblers was:

"Can Walter beat 'em?"

And Washington's one answer was: "Sure!"

Open Bleacher Gates.

At 9 o'clock the bleacher gates were thrown open and the line which by this time extended ten blocks from the stadium, began to hunch forward and spread out over the gleaming new pine seats.

The sun began to break thru the overhanging mists, bringing welcome warmth to those who had stood shivering in line thruout the night.

A parade of survivors of the first division down Pennsylvania avenue, distracted the city's attention momentarily from football, but once this was over there was a rush from all directions to the park.

Fremont Starts Season With Win

FREMONT, Neb., Oct. 3.—Fremont high succeeded in defeating its first gridiron foe of the season here this afternoon when Coach Johnston's lads put University Place away to the tune of 20 to 0. Both teams played ragged football but sensational end runs by Herndon, Fremont halfback, and successful forward passes gave Fremont the edge.

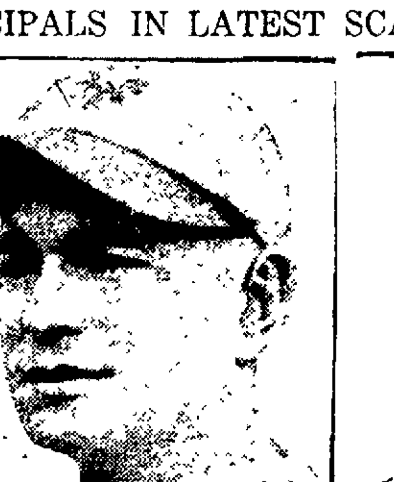

Fremont scored in the first, second and fourth periods. The first touchdown followed a series of line plunges and end runs. Whitfield, Fremont captain, went over for a touchdown. Gray made the second marker for Fremont when he grabbed a long pass from Krueger and went over. In the fourth period, Gray again caught a long pass that carried the ball from mid-field to the visitors' eight-yard line. After a series of line smashes Brayton carried the ball over. University Place threatened seriously at various times during the game but lacked the punch to cross the line. McLean and Lawson starred for the visitors while Herndon, Whitfield and Hollenbeck featured for Fremont. The lineup:

Big Ten Figure Changes In Rules

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Important changes in interpretations of the football rules were decided upon by leading officials of the western conference, in a meeting with Major John Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Big Ten here.

No more protection than at any other time shall be given a passer, in the ruling on roughing a passer, according to one of the conclusions of the arbiters.

Another conclusion stated that a heel hole may be made in the ground to rest the ball preliminary to the kick-off. This applies to the much discussed 1924 ruling out of the tee which formerly held the pigskin. Other decisions follow:

All four officials are held responsible for a mistake in the interpretation of the rules. The management of the home team must provide a pistol and hoster which the field judge is required to carry. This pistol is to be fired at the end of quarters, as well as of halyes.

To the rule: "Any player may recover a kicked ball which has not crossed the line of scrimmage," the following amendment was added: "Or touched by an offside man."

A forward pass is held completed when it is momentarily held secure in the field of play. When the ball is fumbled on a try for goal the defense may not score. A player holding a ball for a place kick will not be considered off side. The referee is to keep the record of two minute periods of time out called by captains.

Omaha Central Bumps Beatrice

BEATRICE, Neb., Oct. 3.—The Omaha Central high school football square opened the gridiron season here today by defeating Coach Johnston's Orange and Black squad 26 to 0. Marrow, Gorton, Solomon, Egan and Leahy and Blue Howell, the latter playing only the first five minutes did good work for the Purple and White, while Worley, Lockard and Ellis were the ground gainers for Beatrice. Score.

Captain "Blue" Howell carried the ball over the Beatrice goal line in the first five minutes of play for the initial touchdown, after a series of line plunges topped off by Morrow's 25-yard run which brought the ball from Central's 55-yard line to beneath the shadow of the Beatrice goal.

In the second quarter Morrow skirted right end for fifteen yards to a touchdown and Muxen crossed the Beatrice goal line twice in the two final periods after the way had been prepared by brilliant open field running by Morrow, Solomon and Egan.

Beatrice several times opened sharp ground gaining attacks and once threatened the Omaha goal but all attempts fell short.

Cotner Trounces Doane Gridsters

CRETE, Neb., Oct. 3.—Coach Parmiter's Cotner Bulldogs inaugurated the State Conference season here Friday by nosing out the Doane Tigers, 13 to 12, in a battle that was not decided until ...

The first period saw both elevens striving for an advantage. Doane threatened with a forward pass attack, finally pushing the ball over late in the first stanza. Snyder, Cotner fullback, lugged the ball across in the second period, knotting the count. The score at the half, Doane 6, Cotner 6.

Straight line plunging by the Cotner backs carried the ball within scoring distance and Snyder again crossed the Tiger goal line. Kray hell kicking goal. Doane's failure to make the try for point after it's final touchdown cost the Crete eleven a tie. The score by periods:

LINCOLN DEFEATS KEARNEY ELEVEN

Corrick Scores All Four Touchdowns for Red and Black Outfit—Kearney Outclassed All the Way.

KEARNEY, Neb., Oct. 3.—Taking the lead in the first five minutes of play, Lincoln high had little trouble downing the strong Kearney high eleven here Friday afternoon, 27 to 5. It was the opening game of the season for the Red and Black.

Kearney fumbled on her own 15-yard line, Corrick recovering and running to a touchdown in the first quarter. Teal kicked the try for point. Corrick's 45-yard run a moment later gave the Links their second touchdown, Teal again kicking goal. Kearney's scores came as a result of a safety and a 30-yard drop kick by Moore.

The second and third periods were scoreless with Lincoln having a slight advantage.

The visitors scored two more touchdowns in the final period. Corrick intercepted a Kearney pass on the home team's 15-yard line and carried the oval to a touchdown. Lincoln tried a scrimmage play for the try for point but failed to make the necessary distance. Another intercepted pass by Brochu placed Lincoln in a position to score late in the period and Corrick again carried the ball over.

Hack Miller Tops Western Hitters

The Western league maintained its reputation for hitting to the end of the 1924 season, as the final averages show. These figures, tho unofficial, are not likely to show much change when the official scores are checked and compiled. Three clubs of the league hit considerably better than .300, with Tulsa leading, its team average being .325. The pennant winning Omaha team was fourth in the batting list, four points under the .300 mark. Reason for its success is indicated in the low total of runs scored by opponents.

Fielding records of teams show low percentages, with Denver on top with an average of .962. Lincoln on the bottom fielded but .947.

In the close and shifting battle for the honor of being the best hitter of the hitters' paradise Miller of St. Joseph finally won out, by one point over Lelivelt of Tulsa, who shoved himself above Washburn and Lamb in the final stages. To Washburn, however, go the slugging honors, with his impressive total of 458 bases hit for, including 48 home runs. In 169 games played Washburn scored 184 runs, which must be pretty close to a record anywhere.

If Billy Bayne of Tulsa can be classed as a "regular" after pitching 96 innings, then the pitching honors of the Western should go to him, with his nine wins and two defeats. If not then the honors go to his teammate, George Blaeholder, who pitched in 226 innings, won 18 and lost six. Lee of the new Omaha champions, pitched 325 innings, was in 47 games all told and was given credit for 25 wins and charged with 11 defeats, which ranks him in percentage next to Blaeholder.

McColl of St. Joseph, with a team not getting much of anywhere, was a notable performer. He pitched in 37 games all told, won 20 and lost but nine.

FINAL AVERAGES OF LINCOLN BALL CLUB

The final averages of the Western league show Tony Lazzeri moved into top position among the Lincoln hitters. His average was .329 and his hitting included twenty-eight home runs. He was with the Solons for only about half the season. The final averages:

Lazzeri	.329	Kaderee	.277
Moore	[illegible]	Coleman	.271
Carver	.291	Chavez	.255
Snyder	.290	Cartwright	.248

Nebraska City Trims Auburn Hi

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Oct. 3.—Nebraska City high school defeated the Auburn high Gridsters 10 to 0, in hard and evenly fought football game on the Auburn field Friday. Nebraska City scored a drop kick in the first two minutes of play. The ball remained in midfield until the latter part of the second quarter when Auburn field only to have the half end with ball few yards from the goal.

In the third quarter the visitors netted forty yards on an exchange of punts and by a series of line smashes pushed the pigskin over and drop kicked the extra point. Auburn rallied with a brilliant march of over fifty yards in the final quarter by an excellent forward passing attack, coupled with a series of line bucks only to lose the ball on downs.

Midland Defeats Wayne Gridsters

WAYNE, Neb., Oct. 3.—Midland took a fall out of Wayne Normal's championship aspirations here Friday by trouncing Coach Dale's crew, 20 to 2.

Chambers, star Midland fullback; Carmody, quarterback and Friedstrom, end scored the Midland touchdowns. Coach Speer's eleven resorted to straight football while Wayne attempted a number of passes.

E. Luchel, Graham and Tschudy starred on the line for the winners while Chambers was, easily the star of the backfield. Wayne's two points came when Hobel, Midland's green halfback, touched the ball down behind the Wayne line thinking the ball had rolled out of bounds. Midland substituted freely in the last quarter.

Elmwood Trims College View Hi

Elmwood's high's football team nosed out College View 13 to 12 in a battle waged on the suburban rectangle Friday afternoon. Two end runs by Turley, accounted for all the College View scores in the first quarter.

Bronkow of Elmwood reeled off a 40 yard run late in the second quarter and Hart crossed the line a moment later for the visitors' first score. Another end run by Hart in the fourth knotted the count. Bornemeier kicked the try for point. The score by quarters:

Elmwood	0	6	0	7—13
Col View	12	0	0	0—12

Broken Bow Wins, 13 to 7.

BROKEN BOW, Neb., Oct. 3.—Broken Bow high nosed out Central City here Friday, 13 to 7, in a battle waged before seven hundred shouting football fans. The home eleven counted most of their tallies in the third period.

Some War Figures.

Current History Magazine: So far Germany is the only one of the great belligerent nations to disclose fully the disease mortality rate of her armies during the world war, 1914-18. In an article published not long ago in Wirtschaft und Statistik, the official organ of the German statistical office, it is stated that the deaths of persons in the German military forces from the outbreak of the war to the year 1919 numbered 1,711,154. Of these only 187,972, or one in nine, died as the result of disease, as astonishingly good showing, all things considered. It is much better than the records of the Russian troops. The German authorities calculate that, with the statistics for the Caucasian armies missing, 36.90 per 1,000 of the 12,500,000 Russians mobilized in the course of the war died of disease, while 89.2 per 1,000 were either killed outright or succumbed to wounds. With 13,250,000 men mobilized, the Germans estimate their losses at 128.6 per 1,000, of which only 13.8 were due to disease.

M'GRAW NOT SURE OF HIS LINE-UP

Day Dawns Dark and Foggy Which Works to Advantage of Walter Johnson—Landis Says Series On.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Washington waited fifty years for an American league pennant and nearly shook to death for three days before a world series but her big day arrived.

Under a blanket of haze and fog that has all the looks and feel of London, the city awoke today and crouched for the running crash to the ball park where their Washington Senators and the New York Giants meet in the first game of the world series.

Fans didn't like the weather and they feared rain but they didn't complain. A better Walter Johnson day could not have been ordered.

Believe It Walter's Day.

"The big train will throw his fast one right by 'em today," the bugs jubilated.

It was not until this morning when Commissioner Landis, the big boss of baseball, repeated for the steenth time that the series was on and that Ban Johnson could not stop the show even with a bunch of marines, that Washington became satisfied that it wasn't to lose what the city had waited a lifetime for.

"I'll be at the park in time to see the boys warm up and I know that I won't be alone. The series is on and it's going to be a good one," Landis said.

The Senators were favorites in the betting to win the first game but betting was slow on the series.

It was generally believed that Nehf would pitch the first game and Heinie Groh would not be able to play third base for the Giants.

McGraw Makes No Statement.

Manager McGraw was unwilling to give a statement about his lineup this morning. "Really don't know what pitcher I will ask to work and I can't find out about Groh until before game time", he said.

Young Buck Harris, the Washington manager, said that he would pitch Walter Johnson and would play his regular team.

"We have nothing to be secretive about," Harris said. "Our boys are all in fine shape and we don't have to worry about a line-up."

George McBride, Clyde Milan and Donnie Bush, three former managers of the Washington club who failed to do what young Harris accomplished were among the thousands of visitors in the city and they were rooting for the Senators.

They said that Washington was sure to win the series because they had more speed and better spirit than the Giants.

Club officials said that a crowd of 38,000 was certain for today's and tomorrow's games. "We've sold every seat in the park and we are quite certain that the tickets will be used. We could have sold twice as many if we had a place to put the fans," Clarke Griffith, owner of the club said.

Officialdom in Boxes.

He added that practically the entire official family of Washington will occupy the box section.

While Washington's lineup is certain, it is not known how the Giants will play or bat. If Groh plays third base, he will lead off and Kelly, playing first base, will bat fourth. As far as is known now the lineups will be:

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Grain futures rallied from an opening slump and finished sharply higher on the board of trade today. Fair demand for wheat prevailed on the strength of export sales and unfavorable Canadian weather.

Altho it is felt that corn had advanced high enough for the time being, that market went up with commission house buying.

Oats were inclined to lag. Heavy country selling on bulges caused profit taking toward the last.

Sympathetic gains were scored in the provisions list.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Wheat and corn sold off, oats made a fractional advance at opening on the board of trade today.

Wheat sagged under the weight of week end liquidating but firmed up on receipt of export orders. Liverpool was sharply lower at the start but a late rally recovered most of the loss.

Corn suffered losses by a resumption of profit taking. Heavy shipments from Argentine caused longs to sell out.

Export sales caused oats to advance.

Weakness in grains offset higher hogs and cables, and the provision list opened steady.

Grain Market Opinions.

Barclett-Frazier & Co.: We would take advantage of any further dip to make purchases.

Clement-Curtis & Co.: There is no material change in the situation.

Harris-Winthrop & Co.: We expect no sizeable decline.

Thomson-McKinnon: It seems a good time to await developments.

Jackson Bros. & Co.: Wheat, we feel, will eventually sell higher. Corn looks lower.—Lamson.

White: The setback in wheat yesterday was not surprising. It offered an opportunity to investors who should buy on any dips. The world situation is far from disconcerted. Corn a good trading market. Country selling some oats on the bulges, that it is well to take profits on swells.

Weinand says: While grains may ease off temporarily ,world's situation is unchanged. On further dips favor purchases wheat, rye and ots. Think corn should be sold on rallies.

Chicago Tribune: Commission houses advise extreme caution in buying grains on bulges. While they believe that values will be higher later, they declare purchases should be confined to breaks. Traders as a rule look for further recession of a few cents in wheat. Rye might break sharply at any time should the market be caught bare of buying orders. Oats are regarded as a purchase on all depressions, as they are relatively the cheapest grain. A leading exporter said the export demand was not following the advance in wheat and rye and was flat at the close.

Ocean rates were also easier. That the markets are badly strained was indicated by the action of barley in Winnipeg, where a Chicago trader tried to sell 100,000 bu. and depressed the price 5 cents before the grain was sold. Export business: Wheat, 1,000,000; rye, '00,000; barley, 250,000. Oats a moderate amount.

Journal of Commerce: Some of the leading export interests in the local trade claim the foreign demand for wheat and rye showed considerable falling off. For the first time in a long while the break uncovered very few resting orders. Arthur Cutten, who was in New York yesterday declared he was a bull on wheat and rye, but that the markets cannot go up every day. Cutten said that by May, wheat will sell much higher than any one realizes. Cutten believes corn is high enough for the time being. The probable crop, according to him, will be around 2,300,000,000 bu.

Herald and Examiner: Considering the heavy realizing sales of the last few days the market has displayed astonishing strength. Such reactions as occurred yesterday are natural occurrences in a bull market.—Lamson.

London Cables.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Berlin messages contradict scare reports of German harvest failure. Reliable authorities consider results average, especially wheat. Damage west and southwest counterbalanced by satisfactory yields in Pomerania, Brandenburg and Silesia.

Native deliveries increases moderately and quality is slightly better.

Paris: Clover market stronger and higher. Bad crop reports account damage by heavy rains. Old stocks from last year cleaned up.—Lamson.

Foreign Cables.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 4.—Wheat closed here last night unchanged, 1c up. Corn closed here last night unchanged, 1⅛c up.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—With the German loan imminent, it was not supposed that banking interests would permit the market to run into an extensive decline, even if the strength of the economic situation considerably improved tone in the week end session and a rallying tendency was the predominant characteristic of the general list during the two hours trading.

Some of the selling had to be absorbed in the early dealings representing the adjustment of commission house accounts. After this liquidation had been completed, a gradual recovery set in, carrying prices generally higher in both railroad and industrial lists.

The market closed higher.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The weekly reviews reported increased activity in most lines, with the main trend of business still upward. In view of this steady expansion many observers predicted that levels seen on the current reaction would be the lowest reached before election time. This though encouraged good buying of standard stocks in the early dealings.

But irregularity continued to characterize the general list, owing to enforced liquidation of lightly margined accounts which had been impaired by Friday's decline. Price changes in the active issues were about equally distributed between further recessions and fractional recoveries, with most of the gains in rails, including Erie, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio.

Stock Market Opinions.

Ware & Co.: Would not be surprised to see further decline.

Post & Flagg: We do not see any signs of real liquidation.

Logan & Bryan: We think the next important swing will be upward.

Lamson: Twenty industrials: $1.02 1-4; off, 99.20; rails, $8.97; off, 1.14; 40 bonds 90.81; off, .35.

New York Tribune: It is evident that conservative persons are not wholly satisfied with political news as it develops and there has been a disposition to sell stocks on bulges and wait until the outcome of the election is more clearly defined.

New York Times: There was heavy selling of sticks yesterday by professional traders which caused pool leaders to cease activity in stocks to which they lately gave attention. Kreege broke 10 1-4 points to 425 on one sale.

CAN YOU SOLVE—

The Fingerprint Riddle

(One of the World's Greatest Detectives Did)

"Did you notice the house that the cat went into?" demanded Chief Stone, of the New Jersey branch of the bureau of investigation, of his assistant who claimed to have seen a cat which was orange-striped on the front half of its body and bright purple on the other half.

"Yes, sir, I did. It was near the corner of fifth and Jackson. Why?"

"You'll see soon enough," replied the chief. "Have you forgotten that big dye robbery that took place a couple of weeks ago—the one in which they got away with several thousand pounds of dyes that are worth their weight in gold? More than half that dye was purple."

The home of the purple cat was watched day and night, and government agents carefully noted every one who went in or came out. But no one was arrested, because, as Chief Stone said, "Any court in the world would laugh itself to death if we grabbed somebody just because his cat had a tail that didn't match the rest of its body."

It was about a week later that Stone and Inspector Drew noticed a truck lumbering thru the streets of Paterson, while close behind it was an automobile in which were three of the men who had been frequent visitors at the house where the purple cat lived. In spite of the protests of the trio, Stone and Drew halted the truck and searched it—bringing to light 3,000 pounds of dyes stolen from the Textile Alliance. In addition, a search of the truck disclosed a letter from a warehouse in Brooklyn, where the government operatives later found the remainder of the missing dyes, intact except for a small amount which had been used for experimental purposes—among other things, the playful dyeing of the orange-striped cat, a joke which led to a ten-year term in prison for all concerned in the robbery.

The Fingerprint Riddle.

"Monsieur, the case is an impossible one. There is no doubt that Rombert is the guilty man. He is the only one who can possibly be guilty of the robberies, for he is the only one who was on hand when they took place. But the fingerprints we have found in the different houses where Rombert has visited and where the robberies took place have nothing at all in common. In fact, they are about as different as they can be. That is why I say the case is an impossibility, for fingerprints never lie."

"Nothing is impossible, particularly when it has happened," growled Rene Faralicq, one of the commissioners of the Parisian detective force. "If this man is guilty we will have to trap him. But first, are you certain that he is guilty?"

"Positive, monsieur, with the exception of the fingerprints. If it were a matter of one or two, or even three, coincidences, one might lay them to chance. But when one investigates eight robberies, each of the most daring and sensational nature, and notes that Rombert was the only guest present each time, the odds in favor of his guilt approach infinity. But, to offset that, there is the matter of the dissimilar fingerprints—and fingerprints never lie."

The more that Faralicq turned the matter over in his mind the more complicated it appeared. Finally he decided on the bold move of searching the home of the suspected man without the formality of obtaining a warrant, which would warn Rombert that the police were coming. In spite of the fact that he went over everything with almost microscopic care, Faralicq was forced to confess that nothing seemed to be out of the way. Then, as he paused in the library during his second trip thru the house, his trained eyes caught a detail which they had missed the first time. Three of the four Oriental rugs in the room were laid with mathematical precision, their edges precisely paralleling each other. The fourth, however, was a little out of line, as if it had recently been moved.

Hardly daring to hope that this was the clue for which he had been seeking, the commissioner raised the rug and saw two of the boards in the flooring were arranged so as to form a natural hiding place. In the cavity beneath the boards was a small pasteboard box containing a number of pairs of rubber gloves and a dozen pieces of thin metal, about an inch square.

These, however, were all that Faralicq needed to give him the full solution to the apparently impossible fingerprint mystery.

What were they, and how had Rombert used them?

The answers to these questions will appear on Monday.

CAN WOMEN TAKE PART

FARMER'S WIFE'S RIGHT TO SIGN IS CHALLENGED.

Supreme Court to Decide If She Is Competent to Take Part in Scrap Over Hiring County Agent.

On October 20 the supreme court is to hear arguments on the question of whether the wives and daughters of farmers are competent to sign a remonstrance against the employment by a county board of a county agent. The case comes before it on an appeal filed Saturday by the Furnas County Farm bureau, and which the court advanced for an almost immediate hearing because other counties, like Pawnee and Dodge, have the same legal knot to untie and a speedy decision is needed.

The law provides that where a stipulated number of persons actually engaged in the business of farming organize a bureau and petition the county board for financial support it shall comply. This is the first step in the hiring of a county agent and fixes upon the county partial financial responsibility for the bureau.

As amended at the last session the provision is also made that if a certain number of persons actually engaged in agriculture remonstrates against such action the matter shall be submitted to the voters, all of who, whether farmers or not, are eligible to take part in the election.

It is stipulated in the appeal filed from Furnas county that the remonstrance contains the legal number of names to call for a popular referendum on the proposition, but that of the 1,156 who sign 492 are the names of women, wives and daughters of men actually engaged in farming.

All that the court has to do is to decide if a farmer's wife or daughter is a person actually engaged in farming. The lower court held that as women now have full suffrage rights and as the women on the farm raise chickens, milk cows and operate a garden that made them eligible to sign the remonstrance.

The bureau appealed. Its attorney contends that farming is entirely a matter of cultivation of the land, and that the land thus treated must be more than a garden even if less than a farm. The test is whether cereals and stock are raised. It is also contended that the legislature did not mean to include the women or it would have done so, and that as the right to sign a remonstrance is not a natural or inherited one, but purely a matter for the legislature to say it cannot be demanded under the nineteenth amendment. It is admitted that farm women do help materially, but it is contended that the work they do is merely incidental to their station in life.

Men and Things

The Lincoln speech of Senator Wheeler was remarkable for its moderation It contained no more unfairness and twisting of issues than is common with the professional political orators It lacked much of the exaggeration and vitriol that appeared in his other speeches. He didn't score anybody or attack anybody viciously nor did he point with his usual pride to himself ala Jack Horner. He had the press gang wildly hunting for a lead to their telegraphed out stories, and that is the mark of a fairly good speech. He did not tell us that the government stood to lose billions by Fall's treason, as he did in Ohio. He is getting closer to the home of Teapot Dome where the truth is better known and where many good oil men say Teapot Dome is a lemon

We never read of Teapot Dome but what we think of an instance where the indignant state officers of Nebraska got after the head of a corporation under state supervision who had traded in to his company a block he owned at a valuation in excess of what it was worth, taking stock for the block. Declaiming loudly against such a deal, the virtuous state officials made him cancel the trade, return the stock to the company treasury and take back his block. In the final windup of affairs it turned out that the company would have been a lot better off if it had been allowed to keep the block and the ex-president the stock

The impression has prevailed for a good many years that the rich folks' kid inside the candy store filling up on sweets was better off than the poor folks' kids on the outside with their noses pressed against the glass. But doubt is creeping into our minds. There is no pleasure in satiety. All candies taste alike in time to the surfeited palate, and the taste isn't good It might be difficult to convince the kids on the outside that they were having a better time tasting in anticipation what they saw the boy inside buying, but there is more delight in a desire entertained than a desire satisfied The fact that people want things and have the ability to desire them is what makes the world step forward.

Senator Howell has improved a bit on our plan to have the farmers hold a mass or delegate convention and decide on what is wanted of the government before congress meets again. He would have it made a permanent organization represented at Washington. Whatever the farmers wanted of congress could be presented thru this bloc In that way the members would know it is what a deliberative body of farmers had expressed a desire to have passed. The only hills of difficulty that it would have to mount would be that some of the senators firmly believe they know more than all the farmers and there is no way to keep the bucking minority of farmers from airing their views.

If an interested person will take the trouble to observe law breaking in the raw—we mean of the casual sort—he will discover that very little of it is due to a deliberate desire to flout a statute, but to the working out of an intense selfishness. One might easily trace it back to this independence of action that we have so long clamored for and which we all insist is the very breath of life. We dump ashes in our alleys because it is more convenient; we cut across intersections in front of machines that have the right of way because we are in a hurry and our hurry is a lot more necessary than anybody else's haste: we do this, that or the other thing that we are indignant if somebody else does, because it suits our convenience or comfort or is what we want to do.

A Boston judge who handled some of the ramifications of the Ponzi case said that he was convinced that such swindles could be repeated every few years because of the wide prevalence of the desire to get something for nothing.

and the belief that if one plunges often enough he will strike something "lucky" some time Out here the most successful bait has been to whisper in the ears of fellows that the banker gets rich by borrowing other people's money at a low rate and investing it in high dividend paying stocks from which he draws a princely income A good many million dollars that the farming industry might have used to advantage in the last year or two was extracted from our farmers by the use of this argument in support of an offer to sell them stock in various companies. Success in the sucker catching game is apparently dependent on a knowledge of when to shift the bait

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

2 Minutes to Answer This.

Once up a time a little frog came rushing out of the water and in most excited manner exclaimed to the mother frog:

"Oh! mama, I have just escaped being trodden to death by a huge monster with horns on its head, which walked out to the middle of the pond and began to drink up all of the water"

"Don't be frightened," replied the mother frog, "it is only a harmless ox, and if it hurts you I will throw it out of the pond '

"You could not throw it out of the pond, mother," replied the young frog, "It weighs 1,792 pounds and is much bigger than you"

"Is it much bigger than I am now?" asked the vain mother as she swelled herself to the utmost limit.

"Oh yes, much bigger," replied the discouraging little frog

"Is it as big as this?" asked the boastful parent as she attempted to swell to greater dimensions, but the effort was fatal, for she burst into a thousand pieces.

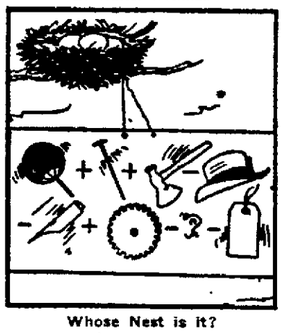

The moral of this fable shows the folly of trying to look big by self-inflation, but the puzzle for our young puzzlers to figure out is—how could that frog have told the weight of the ox?
